In general relativity, an event horizon is a region in spacetime beyond which events cannot affect an outside observer. In layman's terms, it is defined as the shell of "points of no return", i.e., the boundary at which the gravitational pull of a massive object becomes so great as to make escape impossible.

4) There is not a single text in the entire corpus of Sumerian or Mesopotamian tablets in the world that tells us the Sumerians (or later inhabitants of Mesopotamia) knew there were more than five planets. This is quite a claim, but is demonstrable through the work of scholars who specialize in cuneiform astronomy.

The geographic range is based on the elevation of the light. A higher light means that its horizon is farther away, see distance of horizon. Moreover, if the observer's height of eye is higher than sea level the light can be seen beyond its geographic range, the dipping range. However, on sailing yachts this potential is limited.
